

Local events website set to battle holiday boredom

Nature Coast Enterprise has set up a new website for locals and visitors to easily access information about local events.

thisweekend.co.nz is a simple site that will display all the events on the Nature Coast that take place over the following two weeks.

Regional Tourism Manager, Chris Barber says: “events are really important for the region and an easy, simple way to find out what’s one is a key ingredient. We all know what its like when the 'rellies' come to visit – this site gives you the information to ensure they have a good time”.

thisweekend.co.nz is part of regions official visitor website – naturecoast.co.nz and listing events on it is free and simple. People wishing to have their event displayed need to contact the staff at the Otaki i-site who are more than happy to load the details
